

1. What do you think?

2. Vocabulary

Fill in the blanks in the sentences below using words from the box.

hit	local	expatriate / expat	specialist
encounter	potential	incorporate	overseas
pitch	discouraging

- John lives in another country. He lives overseas.
- He is only five years old but he can already play the piano well. He has so much potential.
- A person who is an expert and knows a lot about a certain subject is known as a specialist.
- Having a clown at Josh's 5th birthday was a real hit with all the children.
- I am English but I live in Hong Kong. I am an expatriate. This word can be used as a noun or an adjective and is often shortened.
- If you live in a place and you come from there, you are a local. This can also be used as a noun or an adjective.
- Another word for meeting someone or something, often by chance. I had a scary encounter with a shark while I was swimming in the sea in Australia.
- It's really discouraging when the teacher criticizes your work all the time.
- To add and combine thoroughly with something. He decided to incorporate more fruit in his diet.
- The sound variation of your voice (high or low) is known as pitch.